Chicago, Feb. 6.—The wheat market was less active and lower early, on disappointing cables, from which there was a fair recovery at midday on covering of shorts and some local buying. Later the market was dull and weak, selling down to about the low point on the estimated Argentina exports of 5,250,000 bushels. Later there was a steady feeling again on good export sales and a report that continual bids for red winter wheat were not far from the market. A moderate amount of buying ensued on the decreasing receipts West, and claims were made that the movement would still further decrease during the next few weeks. Offerings late were small and the close was steady.

COMMENT ON MARKET.

Benjamin Woodruff, of Post & Flagg-In spite of pessimistic feeling the market was decidedly firm, and it begins to look as if most of the selling in the last few days had been by the shorts, and to-day they easily rallied the market again themselves on attempting to cover. There is no special news at the mo and I believe that the market should gradually work lower, but, on the hand, it is beginning to rally from time sked. to time, still stocks cannot be consistent

G. Bowie Chipman, of E. F. Hutton & Co.- "The stock market continued professional. Early operations were on the down side, with a fairly good volume of stock coming out. Some of this selling looked good, but there was some fairly good buying in spots. A bear clique operating in 1307, were on top of the market again and seemed to have little opposition from bankers, as support was not citic, Copper, Atchison, and other standard railways. Probably the main incen tive to pessimism to-day is the continued bad news from trade centers. There is no betterment in industry and things ar at a standstill regardless of cheap mor feel that the market is oversold to-day and the bears are timid, hence it is quite probable a rally will be seen to-morrow George L. Edmonds, of Miller & Co.-

"The market was comparatively quiet 8% although some of the selling easily car ried prices down to the lowest point of the movement. Much of the board talk centered on the political situation and its relation toward the exchanges of the ountry. Some interest was excited by he statement made by a news agency had been covered by a well-known professional trader. Rallroad earnings cam again for much adverse co With the moment we are in a politic market, though it is a question whether demagogism is not receiving more rea attention than politics. The level of prices, as I see it, is entirely too far out of line with the level of values to make any real bear campaign at all advisable.
